Pre-Disbursement Identity Verification

If you received a request to verify your Social Security number ("SSN"), you have an eligible claim in the OPM Data Breach settlement. Before we can process your payment, because the federal government is the defendant, we need your SSN. More information about why we need your SSN is provided below.

Section VII.B of the Settlement Agreement, as well as federal law, makes all awards subject to review by the Treasury Offset Program ("TOP"). TOP collects past-due (delinquent) debts, such as tax liabilities, that people owe to state and federal agencies. All awards must be reviewed by the TOP programs before they may be disbursed. More information on TOP is available at www.fiscal.treasury.gov/top/.

The Treasury Department needs your Social Security number for the TOP verification. Under Section V.C.2 of the Settlement Agreement, the Claims Administrator can request such information from Claimants as is needed to make payments under applicable laws and regulations.

After eligible claimants have provided their Social Security numbers to the Claims Administrator and the TOP verification process is complete, an amount sufficient to pay all valid claims (less any offsets required by federal law) will be paid from the Treasury Department to the qualified settlement fund, from which the Claims Administrator will pay eligible claimants. If you do not provide your Social Security number for TOP verification, federal law prevents the Treasury Department from releasing the funds to issue your settlement payment. We cannot change this requirement.
